COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT AND RESEARCH SERVICES

CTSI’s Community Engagement and Research program provides consulting services to foster and strengthen community-academic research partnerships. Consultants offer advice and expertise in the areas listed below.

Connecting investigators and community
- Symposia for community organizations to develop collaborations
- Networking opportunities between and among community partners and academic investigators
- Partnership opportunities with capacity-building projects receiving support
- Opportunities to partner with Los Angeles County Department of Health Services and Department of Public Health

Advice on study design and implementation
- Community outreach assistance from multilingual staff members
- Assistance with recruitment and data collection
- Support for analysis of community-partnered data

Dissemination of research results
- Generation of community-requested geographic, racial, ethnic, and socioeconomically stratified data
- Materials for use in community settings

Grant preparation and training
- Incorporating community-engaged research or health services research into grant proposals
- Access to resources for community-partnered research
- Trainings and workshops to promote academic-community collaborations
